Victoria Hall

Victoria Hall (then)

The Village

Saltaire is named after philanthropist Sir Titus Salt and the River Aire, which flows at the bottom of the village, near Roberts Park. In the 1850's, Sir Titus built the village to house the workers of his mill (now Salts Mill). This was a revolutionary development at a time when all the major surrounding cities of Bradford, Leeds and Manchester were slums. His model village led the way for major regeneration, not only within these cities, but the world over.

Architecture

Inspired by opulent 15th century architecture, and commissioned by Sir Titus Salt as a 'centre for recreation, culture and learning' for his villagers, Victoria Hall was designed by architects Lockwood and Mawson and opened in 1871. It was then known as The Saltaire Institute. The Lions outside Victoria Hall (and the Salt Building opposite, part of Shipley College) have stories to tell too. They were designed by sculptor Thomas Milnes of London, and were – apparently – originally destined for the bottom of Nelson's column in Trafalgar Square in London. Local legend has it that the lions clamber down to the River Aire after dark each night to drink, before returning the next morning. We've tried to catch them, but they're pretty sneaky for such big lions.

Billiards, Bagatelle and Fencing, oh my! When it opened, Victoria Hall housed a library, gymnasium and rifle drill-room, fencing room, armoury, chess room, laboratory and lecture theatre, bagatelle and billiards room, a school of art, and a large dance hall with a fully sprung floor. It was perfectly suited to a huge variety of events, and we still are today, hosting weddings, meetings, exhibitions, festivals, concerts and lavish balls.

Famous Faces

Sir Titus Salt hosted an impressive array of speakers such as historian John Ruskin, Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli and the great explorer David Livingstone. Charles Dickens was booked to speak shortly before his unexpected death in 1870. To this day the venue still attracts visitors from across the globe. It has also been used as a filming location, including for celebrity chef Heston Blumenthal's Great British Food series.

Ongoing legacy

Victoria Hall is owned by a charitable trust, the Salt Foundation, and managed on its behalf by Shipley College. All proceeds from the hire of the venue and donations to The Salt Foundation for Victoria Hall go directly back into managing and maintaining the building.
